This collection of articles is the outcome of a conference on the Continuities and Discontinuities of Power in the Political and Economic Institutions in Eastern Europe held on the first and second of December 1995 at the Center Marc Bloch in Berlin.

Anthropologists and Sociologists from Eastern and Western Europe were invited by the Network for the Social Anthropology of Industrial Societies to present their research in progress and discuss it with their colleagues doing research in comparable set-ups.

The authors of these texts would like to thank the Senat of Berlin for financing this stimulating encounter. The Center Marc Bloch and especially its Director, Etienne François, have given a warm welcome to the conference and have been committed to the project of this book. Without their financial and technical support it could not have been published. We are especially grateful to Andera Mey, the secretary of the Network for the Social Anthropology of Industrial Societies, who helped organizing the conference and produced the final version of the manuscript.
